

Giverny (Monet's House) and American Museum

Visit Monet's House in the charming village of Giverny and admire the beauty of the flower and water gardens.

Giverny is a charming little town dating back to ancient times and with an interesting history. However, it was not until Claude Monet discovered this town that it became well known throughout the world. Monet lived at Giverny from 1883 until his death in 1926. In the surroundings of his home, Monet created the famous flower and water gardens with its Japanese bridge, which became his main source of inspiration. Claude Monet was of particular interest to the Americans, as many of them studied at Giverny. During this tour, you will also have the opportunity to visit the American Museum.

Local transportation, services of a driver-guide, entrance to Monet's Home, a visit to the garden and American Museum.
